“the people with the most to lose from genuine social change have placed themselves in charge of social change”

Winners Take All: The Elite Charade of Changing the World, Anand Giridharadas,

Why the question about democratizing philanthropy?

- The top 10 percent of humanity holds 90% of the planet's wealth.
 - The top 1 percent provides about a third of all charitable dollars given in the U.S.
- Just 0.7% of U.S. foundation funding goes to Latinx-serving nonprofits in the U.S.

“Foundations are unaccountable, both politically and in terms of the disciplines of the market: they are governed by trustees who are elected, not by the public, but by existing trustees. In this sense they are profoundly anti-democratic”.

Philanthropy: From Aristotle to Zuckerberg by Paul Vallely

What is a Digital Giving Circle?

- Members of a community that pool and mobilize resources to invest in the causes that most inspire them.
- They decide in a participatory and democratic way the organizations that will receive grant resources.

Why Do People Like Giving Circles?

- Improve mental health and wellbeing
- Foster civic engagement
- Reduce isolation and increased sense of belonging and community

“Giving circle membership tends to result in people who give more and give to a wider array of organizations”

Giving Circles: A Way Forward for Democratizing Philanthropy by Michael Layton

“giving circles are probably the single best expression of democratic philanthropy”

W.K. Kellogg Foundation, 2012

with over 46,000 GC members in the US, an estimated $1.29 billion in grants has been distributed

The Challenge

- A culture where philanthropy is seen as something reserved for the ultrawealthy.
- Lack of tech opportunities for civically minded donors to build community and engage in meaningful long-term giving initiatives.
- Lack of bilingual giving infrastructure for Spanish-speaking donors.
- Difficult management and accountability issues for existing Giving Circles.
- Trust issues when it comes to transparency and the impact of giving.

Lack of solutions specifically designed to mobilize philanthropic resources for BIPOC communities

Technology can help democratize philanthropy, inspire more people to give and invest in the causes we care about.

The Solution

Platforms for digital giving circles facilitates collective giving state-wide and cross-border and offers a digital solution to easily set up and run a Giving Circle.

Latinx Climate Action

Hispanics in Philanthropy invites you to join our GC to support Latinx led/serving non-profit organizations working on climate and environmental justice in the U.S. and across the Americas.

The Solution

Through Digital Giving Circles, donors and social change leaders can:

- Build a community, donate, raise money, and give to organizations across the Americas through participatory grant-making.
- Create a member profile page to share their causes and leadership.
- Publicize the goals and impact of their GC and inspire members and supporters to make online payments quickly and securely.
- Take advantage of recurring donations and other tools to manage transactions.
- Communicate their grant-making impact and build trust in the work.

Digital Giving Circles

Philanthropy today must be a democratic tool to build resources and grow influence for Latinx communities, creating spaces for the community by the community.

Digital GCs help democratize philanthropy and funding decisions by sharing power and inspiring committed donors and grassroots philanthropists to engage in civic and social action.

HIPGive is Hispanics in Philanthropy's digital platform to mobilize resources for social impact projects throughout the Americas.
